INTERMODAL FREIGHT TRANSPORT

One of the key points of our offer, intermodal freight transport involves the use of at least two modes of transport while using one transport unit, such as a container, swap body or semi-trailer.

In recent years intermodal freight transport has reported a dynamic development and gained a growing group of customers, which is not surprising because intermodal freight transport has a number of advantages: minimizing costs, the possibility of transporting a larger batch of cargo at one time, fast and timely delivery of cargo, reducing the risk of damage to the goods, limiting the phenomenon of congestion, care for the environment, one contract for the carriage of goods.
